"Genko Campaign" is a multiplayer online game of Sengoku Jidai: Genjo Campaign, a historical simulation game for the PC. This game allows you to control the Mongol Empire and face off against the Kamakura Shogunate. The Battle of Hakone in 1281 will be the first campaign battle, in which both sides will be able to play during any of the stages of the campaign. Storyline: During the late-Heian period, a wave of Mongolian forces invaded Japan in 1274, only to be beaten back by the Kamakura Shogunate, but they came back in 1281. This time, the newly created Mongol Empire besieged and attacked a castle town, leaving the castle under their control, capturing the inhabitants of that town, and then taking over the greater Kamakura area. The Battle of Hakone will follow the Battle of Hiraizumi in 1281, but this time, you will be able to choose which side to be on - the Mongol or the Kamakura Shogunate. "Sengoku Jidai - Genko Campaign (2nd Mongol Invasion of Japan 1281)" is an offline experience, but you can play in Free-FOR-ALL and Co-Op modes. Genko Campaign (2nd Mongol Invasion of Japan 1281) seeks to recreate the historical situation of Kublai Khan's attack on Japan, 1281. The goal is to recreate the historical situation of this event with a multiplayer online game of Sengoku Jidai: Genjo Campaign (2nd Mongol Invasion of Japan 1281). Differences between regular history simulation games and this game is as follows: - There are new events, such as the siege of Hakone Castle that occurred in 1281, the fall of Kamakura, and the invasion of

The Emperor. - This game is a multiplayer online game, allowing you to take part in the Genko Campaign battle. - There are new NPC characters. - There are new maps, including the Hiraizumi map. - A new mode is added - Free-FOR-ALL mode.

Feature 1. Online Play and offline Single-player: - The RTS/RPG game "Sengoku Jidai: Genjo Campaign" allows multiplayer online play, as well as offline single-player gameplay. - In the offline single-player version, you can play through the stages of the Genko Campaign battle.

2. Free-FOR-ALL mode

Structure Essential for the complete gamification. Polyglots The person can play on their phones or computers and complete tasks. Be it text, social, messenger or anything else, your phone is at your complete fingertips with the right tool. We take care to exclude unnecessary rules and have a minimalistic approach. Community Almost all of the gamification fun is driven by the community. The game is a playground for social interaction. The founder Jakob Jannowitz built up this community out of his need to get to know people better on a social level. Today, a great deal of the game's community is made of people who have a love of languages or need to learn as much as they can about it. It was the founders' long term vision to make a game of the learning you already do. Where to stay? Slime #1: Slime Media Slime Media is a company we co-founded in 2012. We worked with our friends at FabGames to create the cool game Slime #1. More than 300 people have been working on Slime #1 so far. When we launched the app, we worked with a couple of colleagues to create what turned out to be the world's first social game for iphone. Even though we worked with a few other apps in the same space like Plazr, we've had some specific goals. We believe that when you're in a social game, you should serve the community. The community should be your basis of motivation. You should go outside of your normal routine and habits to achieve the goals that drive you. That's what Slime #1 is for, if you haven't already figured this out: It's not just "fun". It's not only fun. Help make the world a better place If you're looking to set aside a bit of time that truly helps you with the world, then it's time to take a look at Slime #1.
