Greetings. We are Team Cactus, a new indie developer in the world of tank games, and in need of some players. We are currently working on Tank Firing, a multiplayer tank game for iOS and Android. You will have to play with your friends, over the Internet, for no money at all. There is no single player mode, you will play only against friends. The game is played in a fairly simple manner. Objective Build and battle your own tanks, fighting against your friends, and other players, to destroy enemies and other tanks. Features Cross-platform multiplayer, no need to swap back and forth between iPhones and Androids. World wide map system - You can play with players from the other side of the globe. 4 Classes - Each tank has 4 different abilities that will give you an edge over your opponent. Online multiplayer with players from all over the world. Play against players in live matches. No single player mode, play only against friends. Tank, the main character of the game, can move around freely. No money, no leaderboard, no obligation. Just play the game and enjoy having fun with your friends. We expect this game to take at least 3 months to finish. Gameplay Your tank starts you off with a very basic tank; as it is built from scratch by you. Starting with no health, and no missiles, you will start with a single energy bar, and an inventory of weapons. These will increase as you progress through the game. Your ability to fight is limited by a bar that tracks the attacks your tank have received. If your tank is not damaged, you will be able to fire your weapons once for free. Once your health bar is depleted to zero, your tank is destroyed. You will receive different weapons as you progress through the game. New weapons can be purchased at the weapon shop, using weapon points you earn during matches. Weapons, like shields and RPGs, have their own effects on your tank. For example, an RPG will cause your tank to explode if a certain amount of damage is done. The game is single player, cooperative, and team based. To play, join a game lobby, choose a map from the list, and you will be able to play with the other players. We currently have only a few maps available for play, but more are coming soon. The map

Hewlett-Packard Nothing in this article should be construed to mean that we recommend Hackintosh hardware at this time, or endorse its use for any particular purpose. We know good hardware, and this is not it. Further, we know that while buying Hackintosh hardware might seem good it is not the best - and it is not legal. PC vendors that make their machines hard to upgrade or customize are doing the users a disservice, with some even trying to predictively block users from the level of upgrades that users can accomplish and shut them down by giving a false sense of security. "Predictable upgrade" just means, "I blocked you from putting everything in your machine, so you would most likely end up unable to do so anyway". You can totally customize your machine, and at the end of the day you're still under warranty, whereas buying a used Mac would probably void warranty. (which should of course never be assumed, as most Hackintosh people never own a Mac) I have made a virtual machine for the purpose of this discussion, which can be found on bit torrent, with various compatibility settings for different games at The result is that it is possible to play games like Lemmings, at a very low (but still acceptable) framerate, whilst surfing the net and listening to music. Because of the popularity of software such as iTunes, and all the porting attempts, the compatibility landscape may be more populated than you think. Of course, these days the Web can bring you anything, since there are multiple competing ports of Mini-grafik for the same platform, but as of November 2012, the standard ports of most requested programs, even iTunes, MPlayer and VLC are complete. After a half-hour of clicking around the Internet to try and find an illegal torrent, I think I have rather fully established it is feasible to benefit

I'm usually around and love talking to anyone about my creative process. Learn the importance of human rights and the right to a decent standard of living. Life for some people in the USA is deteriorating, but how can we restore their human rights? Before you start reading this article I want to be very clear that this is the last time I'm going to explain in this way because I need to teach my children and other people to think for themselves. If you want to be a good student I recommend you stop reading now. As I've explained in other videos, the good news is that human rights are treated as a universal subject in the USA. The problem is that the educational system is so bad to the point of being irresponsible that for the most part we need to not only start from scratch but also teach our children to think for themselves. The problem is that in today's society when it comes to moral and political issues, especially the debate about who should rule, about who should be the boss or the master, it's not enough to be smart. You have to be smart and also think for yourself. And we are not forcing our children to think for themselves. That is our job. That is why I'm asking you to be the c9d1549cdd played. - We've re-designed this version with a clear purpose, to make it more enjoyable, and to give you more fun. - You're playing at the very beginning of the world and the map is randomly generated on each new game. - Each level has a different, and comprehensive, terrain and monsters to challenge you. - You're fighting with Artificial Lifeforms from the Dark Forest. - The Artificially created Lifeforms have been enhanced with powerful weapons and biotechnology, so they will be more powerful than the normal monsters. - The new enemies will use even more sophisticated technology to counter your trees' defense, so your trees must be upgraded more and more. - Each time you gain an evolution item, you will get a new available selection from the next rank of enemies. This will affect the war strategy. - Each level has a carefully customized terrain structure, but trees, monsters and resources will be generated randomly, so each game is a new exploration. - The resources you collect in the level will be used to upgrade your Technology Tree, so as to gain more power in subsequent battles. - How to choose the most suitable evolution item will affect the war strategy. - The evolutions of the enemies are different; for example, the Artificial Lifeforms will evolve from Animal, Insect, Plant, Human, Drone, Machine, and you will get a chance to use the attack power of the regular monsters. - You will get the opportunity to evacuate safely in specific ranks. - Each time you evacuate, you will get a cash reward, which you can use to upgrade your trees. - You will get a reward depending on how long you fought and the rank of enemy defeated. - The war will last for a certain period of time, and the difficulty of the enemies will gradually increase. - You will
