I also have an animation of a car using a transition from 0 to a 100% volume, but let's say I want the transition to happen over a few seconds, like 10 or 20 seconds, not instantly. So, when I play this file (the audio file and the animation file playing simultaneously), I want to have the car honk when it's 10-20 seconds into the file, and have the car start honking when I start it, and the car stop honking when I stop it. I also want a fade in/out so it's not just instantly. As far as I can tell, this is not possible with an audio file because there's no way for an audio clip to 'continue' with a different audio clip. So, how can I achieve this? Is there a plugin I can use that does this? I can imagine that all the clips I want to play this way have to be'synced' somehow. I'm using Audacity to create this. I imagine that there might be a way to get what I want done with a combination of the waveshaper effect and the beat merge effect, but I don't know how to set it up properly. I have a few hours of free time this weekend to sit down and experiment, so anything would be appreciated. Thanks! A: If you have two overlapping audio clips playing, you will hear over a speaker the result of the overlap of the two clips. To get a fade in and fade out, you can use: the short impulses of the first clip to trigger the start of the fade in the mid-sized impulses of the first clip to trigger the mid-point fade-in the full-sized impulses of the first clip to trigger the full fade in the ends of the second clip to trigger the fade out When e79caf774b
