The following is an optional patch to enable Auto-Tune on or off: - on - off Script running in the background: - if(~autotune) (autotune = on); else (autotune = off); It will toggle between autotune on and off as long as there is a VST or AudioUnit(s) installed in the host that also support autotune: - if(~autotune) (autotune = on); else (autotune = off); So unless there is no VST or AudioUnit installed, this script won't have any effect.

NOTE: “ You need to have your name set to “Big Josh”™ or “Josh L Smith”™ in your Mix/Wave settings page in the Mix Rack in order for this script to work. “ If you had a DI Box connected to your computer earlier, and didn’t reset it, that should be fine. “ I’m not responsible if autotune is applied to the wrong parameter. “ The auto-tune value is only half of the truth; there will be a bit more to work with here. “ You will need to turn down the frequency of the bass a bit when doing this unless you have an extremely high quality UBASS plugins setup, “ I find it easiest to do this by adjusting the low pass filter

I downloaded the latest version from their website. The middle six string notes are quite high. If you play them you will get an extremely high tone. I had this problem with other samples. Took a while but now I don't get any weird tones. I use this for both my synth and guitar. When I run it through an amp (of which I have a lot of) the tone is great with a good dynamic, not extremely distorted (as the Kontakt model I bought was). I played it on a Casio ec-2 (which has a little bit of distortion) and a Roland psr-1500 (which is clearly distorted). But as I used the TFE with a collection of acoustic guitar samples, I had to find a way to layer. In my opinion, this plugin should not be used on electric guitar. There is too much noise and digital processing. When you see this plugin, you should try it. But as I noted, if you have a clean electric guitar, it will work just fine. I used a lot of the sounds in this sampler ( mostly es18 guitar leads ) and i am satisfied with my purchase since it's so cheap ( compared to the kontakt version ) well worth the money for sure, especially if you download the drums sample pack as well. It's a brilliant set of pads which actually fit well with guitar riffs and timbres. You can use these pads to make your own arpeggios and play everything from roots to leads. The volumizer in the samples also makes it easy to create your own lead sounds. If you're creating an arpeggio using an EBow or a Roland MS20, the shimmering effect is amazing and really creates a modern and edgy sound. The pads are short and crisp, and the sounds are well recorded and fun to play. I was really impressed with the quality of the samples and the quality of the mic placement. This entire sample set is hard to beat if you're looking for leads and/or arpeggios. Overall this set really brings the guitars to life, and if I hadn't been on a budget, i'd buy it in a heartbeat. This is 100% pure electric guitar. It has been recorded with an Alesis SR-202, and some guitar pedals.
