In addition to adjusting the rules of the game to work more effectively for this new engine, the pitch is also designed for improved playability and graphics. The pitch has been optimised to make it clearer for players and easier for the referees to work at the same time. It also helps in creating immersive gameplay by giving players a greater sense of reality. Speaking about the new engine, EA Sports' FIFA Football Lead Producer Hugo Barra said: "We're bringing players in FIFA 22 the most realistic game physics experience we've ever created and a lot of the game is powered by this incredible engine - which is the most complicated engine we've ever made. Our lead development teams are working together to develop a better experience for both the players and the fans. "We know that football is a sport where fans can relate to everything they see on a match day. The most important thing is to capture and portray the game in the best possible way on the pitch. "We are confident that our new engine and all its power will bring a new dimension to the game and make it the world's most realistic football game." In FIFA 22, developers have created a new animation system in tandem with the new engine. The new animation system allows for more realistic movement and positioning of players. This system results in a smoother and more authentic experience while improving players' ratings when compared to previous games. FIFA 22 will be available for Xbox One, PlayStation 4 and PC. There will also be a FIFA Mobile "City" version of the game that will be released via the App Store and Google Play by the end of February. The game is launching in 60 different countries around the world, with worldwide availability still to be announced. I am currently taking a year off from teaching. I have four children, a 30-year old and a 21-year-old, and a 17-year old. It just comes down to priorities. I could be having a life with the little ones. Or I could be having a life on facebook. Either way, I know it's all going to come down to priorities. And I have the priorities lined up. I am going to teach kids. Therefore, I need to be a better teacher. I need to develop myself and learn to be a better teacher. With that in mind, I have decided to take the year off. I have two courses of study to finish, and I am a
