the 3 digit manufacturing number is located on the top of the bottom of the computer. this number is typically embossed on the underside of the computer. on a hand blender the number is typically printed around the collar of the motor unit. if you are a sony customer and are returning an item, the return number is usually on the box that the tv was shipped in, however it may be on a sticker on the box or in the packing slip that the tv was shipped in. the return number can be found by entering model search in the search box of the sony site. i have a sony tv that i'm trying to find the model number for. i found the model number to be xbdg75u3. i have it on the back of the tv. can someone please tell me the model number that is on the back of the tv. i'm trying to find out what i need to purchase for a replacement remote. i just purchased a sony tv. in the back of the tv it has printed on the bottom of the tv the model number as xbdg-75u3 and when i opened the box there was a "consultation manual" that was sewn inside the tv box. i would love to know if there is a master model number for this tv model. can someone please help i have a sony tv that i am trying to find the model number for. i found the model number to be xbdg75u3. i have it on the back of the tv. can someone please tell me the model number that is on the back of the tv. i'm trying to find out what i need to purchase for a replacement remote. i have a sony tv that i'm trying to find the model number for. i found the model number to be xbdg75u3. i have it on the back of the tv. can someone please tell me the model number that is on the back of the tv. i'm trying to find out what i need to purchase for a replacement remote.

Jvc Tv Serial Number Lookup

you will find your serial number in the manual/documentation that came with your device. it should be located at the back of your tv.

if you cant find your manual, you can contact the retailer you purchased the product from or the manufacturer directly. trufax is a database of serial numbers published by the consumer product safety commission. it includes a database of all tv models and serial numbers that have been recalled. each number can be found on the recalled product's product information sheet, available at the manufacturer's website. you can also find a link to this sheet in the recall link section of the table. you can use your tv's model number to find out if the product has a recall. most manufacturers include a serial number on a product information sheet that lists the details of the recall and how to find out if your product is affected. the serial number is usually located on the back of the product. you can also find this number in the "product identification" tab on the product's recall page. a serial number is a unique number assigned to a product at the time of manufacturing or distribution. it is usually displayed on the back of the product or on a sticker that comes with it. it contains vital information about the product, such as its model number, name of its manufacturer, the date it was made, and sometimes even information about where it was made. read more about how to use serial numbers to identify your tv and other products in our article. television serial numbers are usually long strings of numbers and letters, and they're always printed on the back of the product. they often begin with the letters "tv", followed by the model number and an alphanumeric code. although the serial number may appear to be long, it's actually only the beginning of a product identification code. the rest of the code is a unique number that will only change if the model number is changed. if it's missing or illegible, the product is a counterfeit. the serial number on the back of your tv is the best way to tell if it's a genuine product. 5ec8ef588b
