
Siemens HiPath 1100 Manager 7.0

Siemens showed the most of the Web-based Manager I interface and then for the Manager E interface. Siemens only used a few of the other Manager technologies, but it seemed the Manager E interface was the least responsive in its operations. Siemens' Manager I interface exceeded all of the performance criteria. Siemens provided the web-based Manager interface that can be accessed remotely via the Internet, and also the Manager E interface for on-premise deployment. Siemens was worst in this category when compared to the other vendors. Siemens' Manager I interface was significantly better in this category than the other vendors. Siemens was the only company to provide a full complement of all three Manager interfaces. This was the only option available to customers on a wide scale and Siemens was the only vendor that scored well in this category. Siemens' Manager I interface was significantly better in this category than the other vendors. The company made significant market strides in its all-IP or IP-PBX (integrated communication system) technology for businesses in 2007. In fact, Siemens boasted that it now controls 47 percent of the North American IP-PBX market, thanks to IP telephony products from its own brand, and from other brands like Avaya, Cisco and Nortel. Siemens now offers a full range of SBC and router products and the company is committed to providing its customers with support and reliable service. So, Siemens is offering its consumers an extensive range of products from one supplier that provide the same level of service and support. One of the advantages of keeping the data routing and management functions on a single box is that it provides greater reliability and eliminates the possibility of network glitches due to overloading of routing functions. Another advantage is that it provides better scalability for the network than using a network manager for each individual router as multiple router and SBC connections can be bundled into a single stack.

after you have entered the siemens hipath 1100 manager, do not close the browser window. when you click on "2", the siemens hipath 1100 manager window will close. you must then enter the siemens hipath 1100 manager again, enter the username & password you entered in step 6, and click on the button labeled "2". these 3d images show the ip functionality of the siemens hipath manager e configuration tool as viewed from the top, the bottom, and in the middle. notice that there are no buttons and nothing to click on except for a toolbar at the bottom. if you have a mouse or a touchpad, you can hover over the toolbar and left-click to display a menu. if you have a keyboard, you can use the up- and down-arrow keys to move up and down in the menu. siemens has a very good video conferencing platform (not good) and a very good messaging service. both are very good and usable. the video conferencing does not have the capability to stream the images from a camera, so if you want to take a video call you have to take the call on your handset and then connect to a pc with a browser, and the pc will stream the images. unified architecture: hg 1500 is the networking basis for max. 64 hipath systems via the customers ip network. voip: hg 1500 converts voice signals into ip data packets, which can then transmitted be via the data network. application interfaces: hg 1500 provides the foundation for the web-based use of third-party applications. no external routers or additional servers are required for lan pcs because the router functionality, firewall functions, and security options are already integrated components of hg 1500. 5ec8ef588b
