I already have tried many times, but I am getting the error: if a[i] == a[j]: TypeError: can't compare a list with an int For example the list has sorted(numbers, key=cmp, reverse=True) I have defined it as: numbers = list([1,2,3,4,5,6,7,8]) What can I do to remove the duplicates? Thanks! A: There is a built in function called unique() that will do this for you. from functools import reduce print [x for x in unique(numbers)] returns: [1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8] If you want to sort this output, you could write your own function that returns a sorted list of the unique elements. A: The list. 5ec8ef588b
